Irresponsible Person Telephoned Governor's Office, Drawing Vividly Upon His Imagination, and State Official Became Alarmed

WAS NO INDICATION OF VIOLENCE AT ANY TIME

Miss Estella Emery Who Assisted in Saloon Raid Suspended as a Teacher in Newark Public Schools Until Conduct Can be Investigated---Superintendent Hawkins Considers Her Absence From Duty Not Justified.

A raid conducted by Marshal Carrico of Kirkersville, assisted by George Gardner, Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Emery and daughter Estella and Miss Clara Steffe all of this city, on an alleged saloon which was closed on account of the deaths of two relatives, created considerable excitement in West Main street Tuesday afternoon.

The nervousness of some individual in the city who took it upon himself to communicate with Governor Harmon's office in Columbus, caused the information to be spread broadcast, that Newark was again in the throes of a riot and the city once more stepped into the limelight of undesired publicity.

That the situation was ridiculously exaggerated and that there was no cause for fear of serious trouble had little or no effect upon the rapidity of the spreading of the false reports.

Mayor Ankele talked with Adjutant General Weybrecht in Columbus, after that officer had been informed that there was danger of trouble here, and succeeded in assuring him that there was not the least cause for alarm and that the local police and sheriff had acted quickly and determinedly in dispersing the curious bystanders in front of the raided place.

As was stated in Tuesday's Advocate, Mayor Geiger of Kirkersville issued three search and seizure warrants on affidavits sworn to and signed by George Gardner, a Newark painter and pseudo-diy sleuth. The places named in the warrants were Charles Henry's, the Schaller Brothers', and the Bismark cafe.

Dr. Emery and the women in the party, assumed the responsibilities of assisting Marshal Carrico in the raid. At the Henry cafe, the presence of the women was objected to and this objection caused one of the women to flash what was thought to be a gun.

Police officers were called and the party was searched. A pair of dentists' forceps carried by one of the women was the only weapon found. The search was continued and the purpose of the officer accomplished.

The party went from Henry's to the Bismark cafe. This place was closed owing to the death of John McCarthy, who was buried Tuesday, and Mrs. Susan Beiber, who died early Tuesday morning. Mr. McCarthy and Mrs. Beiber are uncle and aunt of the proprietors of the place.

Finding the door locked the searchers proceeded to force an entrance. One of the women was lifted to the transom and this was torn from its hinges. Dr. Emery secured a step ladder to assist in climbing into the opening over the door, but by this time a large crowd of curious men gathered in front of the place and the searchers became timid about venturing in before the big crowd.

Dr. Emery called upon Chief of Police Hindel for assistance and within a very few minutes the chief, Captain Swank, Patrolman Abbott, Deputy Sheriff Martin and Probation Officer James Sheridan were on hand and quickly dispersed the crowd.

With the crowd gone, Chief Hindel summoned Dr. Emery and his daughter before Mayor Ankele to explain their connection with the removal of the transom. The warrants in possession of Marshal Carrico were inspected.

An attorney who looked them over was of the opinion that they were defective in that they failed to specifically state what place was to be searched.

According to the search and seizure act, the warrant must accurately describe the building to be searched and give its exact location. The warrant for the search of the Bismark merely stated that the marshal was to search a place known as the Bismark located

SHOW GIRLS MADE GOOD WITNESSES

Lillian Graham, Wasted to a Shadow is Almost a Physical Wreck

PROSECUTOR'S IRONY

Offset by Ethel Conrad Whose Recital of Story Was Intensely Dramatic.

New York, Dec. 13.—Lillian Graham, wasted to a shadow and almost a physical wreck, late yesterday came through a three days' incessant grilling at the hands of Assistant District Attorney Buckner with her story of the shooting of W. E. D. Stokes on the night of June 7, in the Vauona Apartments, unshaken in the slightest degree.

She wept and was frequently hysterical again but she never allowed the Prosecutor to impair her story.

Ethel Conrad, the other defendant, was also summoned to the witness stand and her account of the shooting dovetailed perfectly with that of her friend. She was in striking contrast with Miss Graham as a witness. Her manner was positive and her voice strong, and her recital was ingeniously dramatic.

So realistic was her demonstration of Miss Graham's choking at the hands of Stokes that a Court attendant thought she was really choking and rushed to her side with a glass of water.

She was in every way a match for the District Attorney, one of her humorous sallies causing so much laughter that an adjournment of five minutes was taken.

When the witness was turned over to Mr. Buckner for cross-examination he at once delved deeply into her family history and all the episodes of her past life which might reflect on her reputation.

The witness denied that she had ever had a falling out with her stepfather; that she had ever used profane language in rebuking him, or had ever chased him down the street with a carving knife. She also denied that she had chased a stage hand all over the stage with a hatpin in Philadelphia.

Miss Howell, Miss Finley and myself were occupying a dressing room right off the stage, when this boy—he was nothing but a boy, protegee of Leslie Carter's—opened the door.

"None of us girls had a stitch of clothing, and Miss Howell told him to close the door. Then he opened it further and Miss Howell took a slipper of mine and threw it at him and it went through the door. The slipper was a yellow one and liable to get dirty, so naturally I had to go right after it."

Here Miss Conrad began laughing and stuffed her handkerchief in her mouth. When she recovered her composure she said plaintively:

"I wish Mr. Buckner would stop making me laugh all the time. I don't want to laugh."

Then everybody in the courtroom laughed and Mr. Buckner and the witness were almost convulsed. Even Justice Marcus smiled.

The prosecutor then made his star play. Answering his questions, Miss Conrad admitted a long friendship with James Sullivan, the strike-breaker, which she insisted was purely platonic. She admitted spending a summer at his house in Plattsburg, but said only herself and the servants were there.

Then came the story of her first "gun play." She told how she went to Plattsburg with a revolver and forced a man named Miller, who had said "horrid" things about her to write a confession of the truth and retraction. With this as a basis, Mr. Buckner attempted to show the witness in the light of a blood-thirsty and dangerous woman, but her explanations of his intended embarrassing questions made them ridiculously ineffective.

Miss Conrad explained the finding of Miss Graham's suicide letter, and told of her trip to Stokes's office after she found Lillian in a semi-conscious condition from drinking carbohic acid.

CONFESSED CONFEDERATE OF McNAMARAS AND DARROW, BROKEN IN DEFEAT, INTERESTING FIGURES IN AFTERMATH OF FAMOUS TRIAL

ORTIE McMANIGAL on way to CONFERENCE with DIST. ATTORNEY

CLARENCE DARROW after it WAS ALL OVER

Ortie McManigal and Clarence Darrow are the two interesting figures in the situation arising out of the confession of the McNamara brothers. McManigal, confessed dynamiter, who turned states evidence and gave the authorities much of the testimony upon which they hope to convict others as a result of the dynamiting operations, is to be taken to Indianapolis to testify before the federal grand jury there. He says he'll tell everything he knows. Darrow, broken in his defeat, presents a tragic picture in the after developments of the case facing disbarment proceedings in Los Angeles, and with his name dragged into the bribery investigation there, the rugged old jurist is ready to quit. He has aged ten years in as many weeks.

ABOARD WRECKED STEAMER

Gibraltar, Dec. 13.—The Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company's steamer, Delhi, from London conveying the princess royal, Louise Victoria Dagmar, sister of George V with her husband and their daughters and members of nobility and many passengers has gone ashore to the south of Cape Spartia on the Moroccan coast. Several tugs have gone to her assistance. Her position is considered so perilous that the British Cruiser also has been ordered to leave for the scene today with detachment of artillery in charge of a life saving crew.

While the ship remained on the rocks the lives of those aboard were seriously endangered by a hard sea. Rescue ships managed to get close enough to the vessel and women and children were taken off and landed on shore. The Princess and her daughters were among those rescued. Increasing roughness of the surf repulsed smaller boats which went to the rescue. Much apprehension is felt for the safety of the Duke of Fife and others of the nobility aboard.

RIOTOUS OUTBREAK OCCURRED

Police Quell Big Row at New York Peace Meeting

PANDEMONIUM REIGNED

When Galleries Let Loose With Cat Calls and Hisses---Many Notables Present.

New York, Dec. 13.—A riotous outbreak interrupted a large mass meeting held at Carnegie Hall last night in support of the arbitration treaties which President Taft has proposed with England and France. Twenty-eight reserve policemen were hurried to the hall.

The outbreak occurred after Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, had read resolutions urging the senate to ratify the treaties, and Alfonso G. Koelble of the German-American Citizens' League of the State of New York, moved that the majority resolution of the United States senate committee on foreign relations be adopted as a substitute for the Butler resolution.

"This declaration is not a promoter of peace, but a breeder of war," he exclaimed, and the words were scarcely out of his mouth when men jumped to either side of the stage and raised their hands in apparent signal, whereupon pandemonium was let loose in the upper galleries.

Cat calls, yells and groans and hisses made it impossible for Chairman Joseph H. Choate to proceed with the meeting. One man on the platform jumped up and shouted: "That packed gallery is composed of a lot of cowards." At this the shouts became louder and megaphones were brought into use. Women in the boxes jumped to their feet, looking at their escorts, many evidently fearing the throwing of a bomb.

In the midst of the noise Chairman Choate announced that the Butler resolution had been unanimously adopted.

Persons on the floor took this as a signal for a counter demonstration and jumped to their feet, shouting approval and waved their handkerchiefs and hats.

Andrew Carnegie was down on the program as the next speaker, but he sat in apparent amazement at the demonstration, and in his place Rabbi Stephen Wise asked for a hearing. He was met with such cries as "Shut up" and "Throw him out" from the galleries.

Above all he shouted: "I warn you that no people in the world will feel so badly as the result of this meeting tonight as the Irish leaders in the British parliament." His reference brought forth an even stronger combination of groans and howls.

Koelble, whose resolution had pre-empted in the outbreak, called in vain to the people in the gallery to show a spirit of fair play. Finally police reserves reached the gallery and ejected the leaders, but no arrests were made.

Chairman Choate, in announcing the adjournment of the meeting said:

"The action here tonight has done more to cause the ratification of these peace treaties than all the peace speeches that could be made during the evening. As chairman, I declared the meeting adjourned without allowing the audience to listen to the speeches of the other two men."

These gentlemen were Andrew Carnegie and Frederick R. Coudert, a well known lawyer.

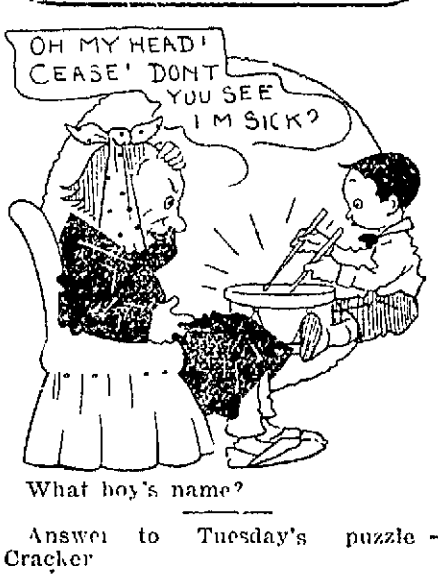

Among the men on the platform were Chauncey M. Depew, Elbert H. Gary, Maj. Gen. Frederick D. Grant, the Right Rev. David H. Greer, J. Franklin Fort, John Hays Hammond, Rev. Dr. John H. Jowett, Henry W. Taft and Jacob H. Schiff.

POLITICAL NEEDS OF THE SOUTH

Southern Man Wants More National Interest.

TOO MUCH PERSONAL POLITICS

Yet Many Southern Statesmen Have
the National Viewpoint—How Uncle Sam Reduces the High Cost of Living—Interior States Demand Their Part of Appropriations.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Dec. 13. — [Special.] —
"We have only one party in the south,"
remarked one of the most distinguished men from that section, "which means that we have no party. The Democratic party is a social institution. It is maintained as such and the contests are inside that party. The fact is that we become localized on
that account."

"We are really not interested in national or international affairs. Our contests are fought on local and personal issues between men who believe in the same things nationally, and the only difference is as to who is personally the most popular or who represents a popular sentiment in the state."

The man spoke in tones of great regret and expressed the opinion that on account of this peculiar condition in the south the men from that section in congress paid strict attention to local and state affairs and did not figure in the big national and international questions.

Only Partially True.

That is only partially true, however,
for there are a number of southern
men in congress who take much interest in national questions. But they are state men first and national men afterward. They would drop a national question to take up something
affecting their states or the south.

They are ever sensitive to imputations against the south and are quick to insist that state supremacy is more important than anything else. That probably accounts for the idea entertained by the man who is quoted in the above paragraph.

High Cost of Living.

We all know that there was a great
to do about the high cost of living a few years ago. Several eminent statesmen nearly broke their necks trying to see who would get to it first in the way of investigation. They investigated, they questioned, they reasoned,
they reported—practically nothing.
Why didn't they call in Uncle Sam?
Now, here is our good old uncle beating us to it right along. I won't go into figures, but I can say that our uncle buys and ships to Panama all kinds of food stuffs at a rate far below what the consumers in his country pay.

Every article of food and clothing
for the army and navy is far below the cost to the people. The government is able to buy cheap and the sellers make a good profit. Why don't our investigators find out the reason?

Bob and Albert.
"How are you, Bob?"
"How are you, Albert?"

And two distinguished senators clashed hands. Both had been governors of their states. Both had made a long uphill fight to reach the senate.
They were the senator from Wisconsin
and the senator from Iowa, leading progressives of the country.

Inland States Want a Share.
They were speaking of several big federal institutions—unnecessary, of course, but obtained by ambitious congressmen—and Congressman Stevens
of Minnesota remarked, "The inland states have to get military posts, soldiers' homes, appropriations for little streams, public buildings, and such,
because that is the only way they can get even a small part of the public funds."

"Most of the money goes to the coasts anyway. There must be a navy,
the fortifications, and the harbors
along the coasts must be made equal to the commerce of the country. There is very little for the inland states compared to what is expended along the coasts."

The same feeling prevails among the people. They want their congressman to get money for anything that will turn a treasury stream in their direction. That is what Johnny Fitzgerald is up against with his plan for a great reduction in next year's appropriations.

He may see the membership of the house run away with him. That will be likely, especially if the senate largely increases appropriations after the bills pass the house.

National Good Roads.

More than thirty bills are now pending in both houses of congress asking
large appropriations for good roads.
Senator Cullom of Illinois is author of one which asks for $150,000,000, and Senator Swanson has a bill appropriating $20,000,000 annually for five years.

It is expected that the good roads convention held at Richmond has given an impetus to congressional legislation in the direction of securing national aid for roads.

Perhaps no other remark of Secretary Wilson of the agriculture department has created quite so much comment as that in which he states that $44,000,000 has been expended for the improvement of roads in the southern states during the past year.

NEAR ESCAPE OCCURRED AT THE OHIO PEN

Columbus, O., Dec. 12.—Just one minute intervened to head off plans
of three prisoners who attempted to make their escape from the penitentiary during the change of guards at 5:25 yesterday afternoon and caused
their defeat at the hands of Guard Jackson, who, when their refusal to comply with his order to halt, discharged his revolver.

Two of the men, who are employed in the dining room, which is near the east wall, succeeded in making their way back to the building before their identity was established. The third, Harry Kessler, serving 20 years from Trumbull county for safe blowing, ran into the arms of Guard Ringle, who was just going to the relief of Jackson.
The men managed to make their way from the dining room without the guards on duty noticing their disappearance, as it is difficult to keep all of the men employed in the hall under close observation. A mistake in their calculation of time brought the men
to the wall just one minute before the change of guards was made. But for their haste, their escape might have been effected.

Jackson, who was waiting the appearance of Ringle, noticed the three men skulking along in the shadow of the wall. Unheeding his cries to halt,
the men broke into a run and dashed
for the north end.

The fusillade of shots from Jackson's revolver brought the escaping men to a halt. Turning, they ran back in the direction of the dining room with the intention of losing themselves among
the many men at work there.

Two succeeded, but Kessler fell into the arms of Ringle just as the latter came around the corner of the building. A search is being conducted for a rope ladder which the men are supposed to have hidden near the wall.

Kessler is serving his fifth sentence
at the penitentiary and is considered dangerous.

ROBBERS SECURED BIG HAUL

One of the most daring robberies
that has been pulled off for some time, was perpetrated Wednesday
during the noon hour, when the office of E. C. Richardson, clerk of Cedar Camp, Modern Woodmen of America, was entered during the absence of Mr. Richardson, and in the neighborhood of $500 carried off.
Mr. Richardson left the office about 11:30 o'clock and went to his home for lunch. When he returned to the office he at once discovered
that the money-drawer had been broken open and that all the collections and assessments for the past week, amounting to about $500, had been carried off. The robber left five or six dollars in silver in the ill and a check for $5 that had been given by Rees R. Jones. Mr. Richardson immediately notified Chief Henderson of the robbery and every effort will be made to apprehend the robber.

PRES. TAFT ORDERED DEEPER PROBE INTO DYNAMITING CASES

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 12.—President Taft personally initiated the government's present investigation here
and at Indianapolis in the famous dynamiting conspiracy in which the McNamara brothers figured. The president was apprised of the details of the case when he visited Los Angeles and the case was again brought to his attention. The array of facts induced the president to believe that the McNamaras were not the only ones
guilty and he immediately ordered a further investigation set afoot. Oscar Lawler, special government prosecutor,
made the above announcement today
and admitted being the man who brought the noted case to the president's attention. The possibility of potential injury to Mr. Taft was taken into consideration.

MISS STELLA TRACEY

Miss Stella Tracey, nineteen-year-old girl who is getting several hundred dollars a week singing in vaudeville, graduated to the stage from a Chicago church choir. That was two years ago. When a New York impressario heard her sing a solo in the choir, he offered her a part in "The Soul Kiss" company. Her mother consented, on condition that she might be allowed to accompany her daughter. She has been Miss Stella's constant companion ever since, and the daughter gives her much of the credit for her success.

Some Gifts For Her

If you have a friend who travels much overseas make her a stateroom bag like the one illustrated and she'll be charmed with the present.

It may be fashioned from any stout material, such as cretonne, denim or the like, and is merely a width of the fabric neatly bound with tape and fitted with rings for hanging. Over this surface are placed pockets of the cretonne. The large pockets are for veils, handkerchiefs and other articles of the sort. The small pocket is for hairpins, and a handy pouch is ready for stray pins.

FOR SMALL STATERoom BELONGINGS.

Ribbon Corset Bags.

The new ribbon corset bags make most acceptable presents for the woman who is fond of the dainty little conveniences of this sort. They are easily made and more cheaply than when purchased at the stores. The flowered ribbons with the solid satin borders are the most popular for the bags. It takes four strips of the ribbon, featherstitched together or put together with the crocheted rings, leaving a turnover at the top, where the ribbons are cut in points and finished with sunflower bows. The hangers are of the narrow ribbons, with a big sunflower in the center to conceal the nail upon which the bag is hung. They hold two pairs of corsets and keep them free from dust. The sunflower rosettes are the sa- chets. Garter bags to match are also among the new fads and are made like a large envelope, with a wide flap that fastens with a button and loop. They are hung with ribbon, finished with the rosettes, as the bags are.

A Helpful Gift.

Very smart to wear with the Irish lace turnover collars are the new buckle pins covered with Irish crochet lace. Any one who crochets can easily make a pin like the one illustrated. Such a gift will please the girl who is very fastidious about her neck dressing.

Some other helpful though humble gifts are going to appear on Christmas morning, the work of a mother of several business girls. She is making over stockings for her daughters, who have so much need of these articles. She has saved pieces of their shirt waists and their summer skirts and has in some cases embroidered them in simple designs or is making them up simply tailored. When neatly laundered they will afford a sense of luxury to the girls which few gifts could lend.

A Handy Gift.

An inexpensive gift for the woman who sews or embroiders is a book made of stiff cardboard backs, 4 by 10 inches, and covered with heavy silk or an art linen in dull colors.

Embroider across the upper face the word "Silk." Run this in a diagonal direction and put a little spray of flowers around it.

On the back cover work the recipient's monogram or her three initials in a corded outline.

Inside the covers are a dozen manila envelopes, arranged with the flap to the outer edge of the book, that are destined to hold as many colors of silk. The make and number of the silk are to be marked on the outside of the envelopes. Three holes are cut through the covers and also in the envelopes. Ribbon is run through these holes and tied at the back in small bows.

The book is fastened together with a cord or ribbon to match.

Pretty Workbag.

A pretty workbag is made just like a pocketbook and is of denim or lined silk. Within are compartments in which are the usual things found in such a bag. The ends are gusseted so that the articles are easy to get at, and, moreover, the capacity of the bag is thus increased.

MUST REMOVE DANCE HALL FROM FAIR GROUNDS

The case of the Licking County Agricultural Society against V. L. Field and others, commenced last February, to enjoin certain parties from the use of the dance hall on the fair grounds without authority, and to compel its removal from the grounds, Judge Nicholas Wednesday morning made the temporary injunction perpetual, and ordered V. L. Field to remove the building from the grounds by March 1. Kibler & Kibler are attorneys for the society.

Judge Nicholas has been assigned to try Don Moreland, charged with first degree murder in the killing of Elsie Henthorn, near Pataskala. The trial starts Thursday.

TO THE PUBLIC

If cough syrups would cure coughs every time, it would not be necessary for us to print this information, but there are so many cases of chronic bronchitis in town that have hung on for months and years, we feel that we must tell what we know about it.

It is a positive fact that the only right way to treat a cough is to use a remedy that acts on the blood, such as Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation, without oil.

This makes the blood rich and pure so it can heal and strengthen the inflamed bronchial tubes. Its taste is so pleasant that even children like it.

Mrs. Olivia Parham, East Durham, N. C., says: "I used Vinol for a cough which had lasted two years and it gave me perfect satisfaction. I am also giving it to a delicate child to strengthen her. She will not take any other medicine, but Vinol is so pleasant she likes to take it and it is benefiting her very much."

Remember if Vinol does not help you it costs you nothing. F. D. Hall, Druggist, Newark, O.

MAKES THE HAIR GROW.

It is the cleansing, germicidal and tonic effect of the herbs contained in Mrs. Mason's Old English Shampoo Cream which makes it so far superior to all other head washes. It's a wonderful hair grower. 27c at druggists. Sold by F. D. Hall, druggist, Newark, O.

ASHAMED OF HIS HANDIWORK

Much has been said in newspapers
of the splendid legislation achieved
last winter under the leadership of Governor Harmon. Aside from the leading acts of the legislature which have been recited time and again,
please consider the excellence of the following:

- Laws were enacted:
- To prevent adulteration of foods
and medicines;
- To teach agriculture in public schools;
- To provide for honest weights and measures in the sale of products;
- To label and make certain the ingredients of fertilizers;
- To provide that appropriation budgets be made up in advance of establishing the tax rates, thus making for
certainty and economy;
- To provide for non-partisan judicial
ballots;
- To prevent corrupt practices in elections, the splendid working of which was seen in the last election;
- To provide for the inspection of boilers, thus making for the safety of workmen;
- To abandon and sell worthless canal
lands;
- To make an inventory of state property;
- To fix the penalty for the misuse of
the union label;
- To compel the state treasurer to let
out state funds at interest to the highest bidder;
- To regulate and license loan companies.

President Taft's Tariff Board has
finally made some sort of a report,
after delaying as long as possible.
Perhaps now the people's representatives in Congress may be permitted to legislate.

Delay has been experienced in selecting the jury to try the Chicago packers. But too much haste might cause the jury to be packed.

HOW NEWARK SUFFERS.

The consequences of a rash or thoughtless act are often-times far reaching and injurious.

For seventeen months Newark people have been endeavoring to atone
for the frightful blunder of July 8, 1910, and in that time more men have been convicted here in Newark for participation in a lynching than have been convicted in all the other cities
and states of the Union in a quarter century. The punishment of those implicated in that awful affair has served to bring favorable editorial
comment from newspapers and magazines everywhere and now just when Newark is making a record for herself a thoughtless person, without any real cause, telephones to the Governor's office and declares that another riot has broken out in Newark and that probably troops would be needed. In five minutes the Adjutant General of the state wires the Mayor to inquire about the situation. In an hour Columbus papers are on the street with red ink extras proclaiming that Newark is again the scene of serious rioting. Other papers over the state and nation take it up and by tomorrow the editorial pages will refer

again to Newark in an uncomplimentary way.

And the cause of it? A man with his wife and daughter armed with a search warrant issued by the Mayor of an outside village, attempt to invade a place where doors were locked.
A curious crowd collected to witness the unusual spectacle but there was no violence, no thought of trouble.
An excited man or an irresponsible person telephoned to the governor and thus touched a match to inflammable material. Newark suffered.

And what good is accomplished?
The quicker Newark people come to have a regard for an opinion other than their own and reach the point
where they recognize that honest men
may differ upon the proper solution
of a very serious and perplexing problem the better will it be for Newark.

GUILBERT TRICKS BY FULLINGTON

In old regime in the State Capitol,
false figures and false statements
were given out by state officials for the purpose of deceiving the people,
but that is no longer possible as State Auditor Fullington has learned to his sorrow. In former years a Republican state treasurer worked with a Republican state auditor to manipulate public records in their own interest. But now the treasurer, Mr.
Creamer, a Democrat is a check upon the auditor, a Republican and vice versa. In giving out statements both men must be honest and on the square. Fullington recently gave out
two statements and both were false,
as reports by Mr. Creamer show.

State Auditor Fullington recently issued a statement to the effect that the expenses of the Democratic general assembly of 1911 were more than $203,000. The correct report of Mr.
Creamer, for the fiscal year 1911, who pays out all money on the legislative account, showed these expenses to be only $277,157.59—less than the amount

Mr. Taft is reported to be opposed to the idea of a Presidential primary.
He has been talking with the people
all over the country.

Chairman Gary of the steel corporation says that Federal control of trusts is sure to come. If its sureness is commensurate with its slowness, then
there can be no doubt about it.

On three separate occasions Caesar turned down the "kingly crown," but
that precedent does not seem to discourage the Roosevelt boomers.

If you go shopping early you will have time to look around and see what other people are buying, if you are in doubt yourself.

MORE DEMOCRATIC ACCOMPLISHMENTS

So Roosevelt is dissatisfied with Taft and full of wrath at his own handiwork. Well! Well! and again,
well! well! If Teddy picked the best and if his best is not good enough why not turn to a tried and true Democrat? Teddy himself was popular only because of ideas borrowed from the Democratic platform. So why not try a real Democrat who can fill an office and whose performances outrun
his promises? We want no more Ralph Royster Doyster Roosevelts and no
more Tafts led by corporation lawyers
into a maze of mischiefs, unintended by Taft, but real nevertheless and costly in time, patience, money and good government to the millions. Give us a Democrat who is big enough to forestall their cunning; wise enough to extend his energy in work and not in bluster; Democratic enough to think of the men in the office, in the cornfield and at the machine, who really bear the burdens.

paid out for the Republican legislature
of 1910, a body that had three less
members and whose session was 25 days shorter. Mr. Fullington was the chief clerk for former State Auditor Guilbert, whose record is nauseous.
Guilbert's methods can no longer be worked in the state capitol. People give true reports, and he is breaking faith.

POLITICAL FUSS.

Bill Jonesby snorts around and kicks and fusses over politics. If Clintebheard to congress goes, there'll be an end to all our woes. When we our senators elect by voting for the same direct, all troubles in this world
will cease, and life will be as smooth
as grease. When this man's theories are in force, and that man's pipe
dreams we endorse, then joy and comfort will abide throughout the whole blasted countryside. And thus Bill Jonesby wastes his time, and never puts away a dime, and when he's sick
or out of work, perhaps he'll sit up,
with a jerk, and wish he'd let the

statesmen go while he was salting down some dough. For congress will not pay the bills when you are needing beef and pills; and senators will not come down to square your credit
in your town; and theorists with lofty
views won't bring your children pants or shoes. Your destiny is in your hand; get down to work to beat the hand, and save a little of your wage against the day of stress or age, and let the statesmen chew the rag and rant about Our Country's Flag.

WHAT WE LIKE TO KNOW

CHRISTMAS IN THE SOUTH AND IN ALASKA.
The celebration of Christmas in the South may be aptly likened to the celebration of the Fourth of July
in the Northern States, for one may hear fire crackers going off in the streets of every city, town and village from Virginia to Louisiana. In many of these places the brass bands
come out and add to the festivities
of the day. They march around playing merry Southern airs to which the black men—arrayed in the glory of their best attire—keep time. Companies of gay appearing soldiers parade up and down the streets to these strains of pleasing harmonies. To add to these demonstrations salutes
are fired with cannons and rifles.

Christmas in Alaska presents a very different picture to our mind's eye. There a curious and popular custom prevails among the natives
who belong to the Greek church. It is called "Going around with the star" and causes a great deal of excitement, though fundamentally—as may be readily understood—its significance is solemn and inspiring.
Every night during Christmas
week, processions formed of men,

women and children may be seen
marching through the village streets,
each headed by a star bearer and two men or boys carrying lanterns fastened to long poles. The figure of a star, which the bearer carries is large in size and covered with brightly colored paper. The procession moves from one home to another of these villagers who can best afford to dispense hospitality. At each they are warmly welcomed and invited to enter. Delicious and refreshing holiday substantial and dainties are set before them. After this enjoyment they sing one or two carols, take up the star bearers, and
march on to the next house; but after the second night of the week's celebration things are not so smooth
for the star bearers, for they are followed by men and boys dressed in fantastic costumes, who endeavor to catch these star-men and destroy their star. Now everything is turned into a gay frolic and the real significance of what they are doing is overlooked for their part of the celebration is supposed to be an imitation of the soldiers of Herod, trying to destroy the children of Bethlehem.

Junction City, Kas., Dec. 13.—With the arrest of Rev. Charles M. Brewer, former chaplain in the U. S. ## HEART AND HOME TALKS

BY BARBARA BOYD

This Matter of Getting Breakfast.

A WAGON rattles down the street, a man clatters out, and you hear the milk bottles deposited on your doorstep. You hear him walk briskly back to the wagon, climb in, and a way it goes up the street. You sleepily look out at the dark, shiver at the cold, snuggle down in bed, and are glad you are not the milkman.

After awhile, another wagon comes rattling along. There's a rustle of paper, as the baker deposits your rolls and bread in a paper bag, and then it's off to the wagon and leaves them on your doorstep.

It begins to grow lighter, and you hear the footsteps of the newspaper man. After awhile, an ice wagon swings noisily around the corner. You wonder who wants ice at this time of year, but recall that some people take it the year round.

The sun begins to look, with a bright and wondering eye, to see that you are still in bed. And unable to withstand that accusing gaze, you get up and go down to a breakfast of hot rolls, of fresh cream, and the morning paper, and other goodly things that seem to have appeared almost by magic, by means of these early morning purveyors. You switch on an electric current, and make fragrant, steaming coffee right on the table, and you sit in a warm, cozy room, with sunshine pouring in, and flowers at the windows, and enjoy those things that come almost without an effort on your part.

There's some difference, isn't there, between this breakfast and that of a cave man's, for instance; or even that of a Colonial ancestor, who while dressing, shivered in a cold room, got breakfast over a wood fire, and counted as delicacies, what are common fare today.

It all shows the progress we are making toward individual freedom by living socially. Because all these people contribute in this way to my breakfast and yours, we each have more time, more freedom to do the things we want to do. We do not need to make the bread, we do not have to milk the cows,—all this time and energy are saved for us for other and more congenial tasks.

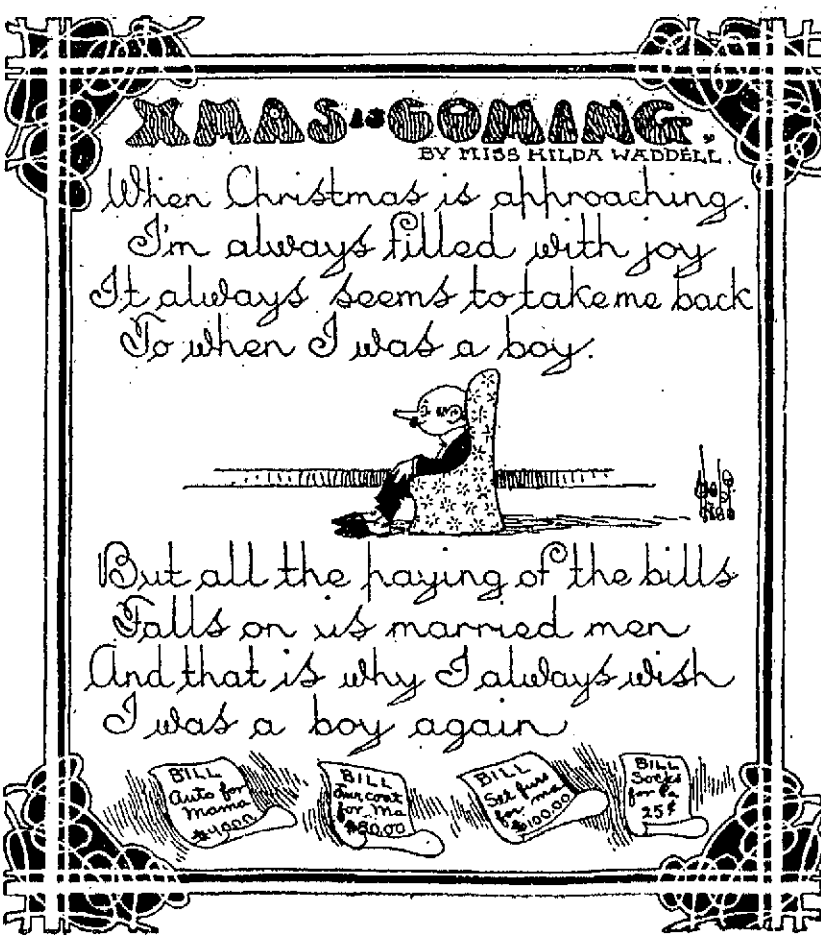

And this is the point we should bear in mind. We should also make our contribution to the common good, if we want a proper balance to be maintained. We should not just accept all this and do nothing in return. If we do, such action on our part will in time upset the order of things. A one-sided social order cannot go on. There must be a right balance. And sooner or later, it will adjust itself, if we fail to do our part.

But happily, most of us want to do our part. Few of us have that disposition to wish to receive all and give nothing. The generous nature wants to give for what he receives. He wants to extend his hands full of benefits for what has been given him. He can give in his kind, for what others have given in theirs.

And in thus giving, he really makes happiness for himself. For the person who receives but never gives is seldom happy. He is too narrow, too self-centred, and too selfish in his outlook on life.

But the one who gives as generously, or more so, than he receives is cheerful, happy. Because in doing his share of the world's work, in adding his strength, even though it may be but a mite, he has the satisfaction that comes from knowing he is helping the world move forward. And the man or woman of intelligence and heart rejoices in doing this.

Barbara Boyd.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Ungrateful Jester's New Year's Gift

Archie Handed Over the Gold Pieces

"WHY don't we get as many gifts at New Year's as at Christmas, daddy?" Jack and Evelyn asked after looking over for the hundredth time their nice Christmas presents.

"Well, I suppose that would be very nice for you," replied daddy, "but it seems to me it would be rather hard on poor Santa Claus, who, I fancy, has trouble enough gathering together those gifts that he has to give on Christmas."

"However, it may be that you will get some presents on New Year's, and I may tell you that once upon a time it was very much the fashion to give New Year's gifts."

"Folks gave presents to the king, to the bishops, to the judges or to the great people, wherever a gift was expected to do good."

"In those days the newspaper funny page or the funny play had not been invented, and kings and great lords had paid funny men called jesters."

"One of the best known of these jesters was Archie Armstrong, the jester of King Charles of England. King Charles was very fond of Archie, and it often happened that when Archie spoke to the king in behalf of some one it did more good than if the high officers of the land had helped his cause."

"Archie Armstrong got many handsome presents. At New Year's he looked for them. Every one at King Charles' court who wished to stand well with Archie and thus with the king was in the habit of making him some gift; also Archie was a miser."

"The story is told that one New Year's day one of the noblemen gave Archie a gift which the jester did not think valuable enough. The nobleman had handed him several large gold coins."

"Archie very rudely turned up his nose at the gift. The nobleman asked if he might have the coins again."

"There are some there that I do not care to part with," he explained.

"Archie handed over the gold pieces, thinking that the nobleman had noticed that he scorned the gift and meant to make him a still larger one."

"When he had the coins in his hand the nobleman glanced carelessly at them and then slipped them into his pocket."

"Archie waited, but the nobleman paid no more attention to him."

"My lord, you have forgotten my gift," he at last ventured to say.

"What gift?" asked the nobleman, pretending to be surprised.

"The coins that you gave me," Archie explained.

"He who has a gift and does not appreciate it well enough to keep it does not deserve a gift," replied the nobleman as he walked away.

"And so Archie lost that New Year's gift, but learned a useful lesson."

COST OF DRINK.

What does drink cost in human misery? It costs millions of money, myriads of criminals, thousands of paupers, thousands of ruined women, hundreds of thousands of children, hundreds of thousands of madmen, with every blossom of what might have been the garden of their lives, blighted as by a fury's breath.—F. W. Farrar.

He further says that the petition was not a "dry" petition, but a "wet" petition, and had he known this he would not have signed said paper, and that it was falsely represented to him by said Jones, as being a "dry" petition.

LASSOING POLAR BEAR HOT SPORT

Actor Forgot Key Surroundings When Rope Tightened.

DRAWN OVER THE SNOW.

Fred Stone, Comedian, Only Man to Capture Animal With Noose, Tells of His Adventures Up Near the Arctic Circle.

I HAVE done what no other man on earth has ever done. I have lassoed a polar bear, says Fred Stone, the comedian, writing in the New York World.

Ever since I learned to handle a lasso I have been crazy to rope something that would put up a fight. I've roped cows, people, gateposts—everything in sight—till I was tired of it. I was in Alaska on a hunting trip with my brother-in-law, Rex Beach. I got into correspondence with a man in Hamburg who knew something about polar bear hunting and learned what it would cost and how to go about it. The next thing was to get up a party of four.

The other three men were Arthur Houghton, my business manager, who, like myself, has been a hunter since boyhood; Robert N. Burnes, the champion trap shooter of Boston, and Edward Farmer, a wealthy sportsman of Boston.

Inside the Arctic Circle.

The ten day trip from New York to Christiansand gave us time to get well acquainted. From there we took a mail steamer up the coast of Norway that landed us at Tromso, inside the arctic circle. There we chartered a whaling schooner 120 feet long, the Foenix.

We found it was impossible to reach Greenland, so we headed for Shannon Island, and it was there we got our bears.

The farthest north we got was latitude 74½ degrees, not far from Shannon Island. We were twenty-eight days in the arctic ice, and in all that time we did not have more than six days of hunting.

It was on July 16 that I lassoed my first bear. We sighted on an ice floe a big old mother bear with two cubs about sixteen months old. Burnes and Farmer had the guns, Houghton had the moving picture machine and I my lariats.

Moving Pictures of Polar Bears.

Taking moving pictures of polar bear hunting was something that had never been done before. I took 5,200 feet of film with us on the arctic trip.

Well, with my sixty foot lariat I slipped up as close as I could on one of the cubs, paying no attention to the old mother bear. Houghton was running along behind me with the moving picture machine, which was no snap to carry. I got within about twenty feet of the cub and threw my rope. The noose settled around Mr. Cub's neck, and then the fun began.

I heard a shot and learned afterward that Burnes had killed the mother, but at the time I was too busy to pay any attention to anything but the cub. When the rope settled about his neck

CLUNG TO THE ROPE FOR DEAR LIFE.

he was too surprised for a second or two to do anything; then he turned and made for the water. Polar bears may look clumsy, but believe me they're not. That fellow got over the ice far more rapidly than I could.

Hung on For Dear Life.

It was half a mile to the water, over hummocks and piles of snow of varying degrees of softness, but Mr. Cub made it in about half a minute. It seemed to me, dragging me after him. It looked to me as if he was going to drag me right into the water, but I clung on to the rope for dear life.

Fortunately for me, the six big Norwegians of our crew were there in the longboat and saw us coming. Somehow—I don't know just how—they managed to get me into the boat and make the rope fast just as the cub slid into the water. With those six big sailors pulling as hard as they could on the oars against him that cub towed us for miles before we tired him out and got him up on the Foenix.

Even after we had him on deck he made trouble for us. He smashed through two cages, but finally we got him safely locked up.

SANTA CLAUS SUGGESTIONS

Betrilled Powder Box Makes a Useful Christmas Present.

Have you seen talcum powder boxes covered with ribbon? If you have observed these attractive additions to the toilet table you very likely made a note of them for use as Christmas presents.

The box seen in the cut is of the regulation size for holding talcum powder. Dresden ribbon sufficiently wide to fit over the sides of the box and allow a small frill to project is selected. The sort with a plain satin edge is prettiest for the purpose.

The ribbon is turned over at either end for about an inch to form a casing at the neck of the box. The rest of the ribbon lengths are gathered bag fashion around the box. Baby ribbon matching the predominating shade of the Dresden design is used to tie the ribbon covering in position around the neck of the box with loops and ends at the sides. A number of these little offerings may be made at small cost if the same coloring in ribbons is used. A bolt of the baby width will be enough to trim about six boxes.

Cretonne Bag.

Here is a fancy workbag with decidedly new and useful features. As every needlewoman knows, when work, sewing silks, etc., are put into the same bag they have an unpleasant habit of being hard to extricate, without tumbling about on the floor. The bag illustrated obviates this difficulty. It is made of a dainty design in cre-

THE DOUBLE PANTY WORKBAG.

tonne. The bag proper is about a foot deep and lined inside with china silk. Coming halfway up on the sides of this bag are pockets of the cretanne, also lined with silk, which are intended for holding the working materials. The large bag is drawn up with ribbon at the top, but the handles proper are of half inch stitched cretanne and are attached like those of a Boston shopping bag.

The Dainty Sachet Greeting.

Little sachets are always a dainty way to send the Christmas greeting, and sachets are always welcome. If one can use a brush at all attractive sachets can be easily and inexpensively made by taking large envelopes and lettering them appropriately or painting sketchily some flower upon them. Envelopes legal size should be used, and they should be in some color—deep cream, rich brown or some other equally artistic tint. On this the message can be lettered in contrasting color or some flower spray painted. Slip inside a thin pad of cotton sprinkled with sachet powder.

Another dainty sachet is made of odds and ends of ribbon or silk in the shape of a flower. A pansy, for instance, can be fashioned of lavender and white ribbon, the two upper petals of the lavender, the other three of white tipped on the edge and striped in the center with lavender paint. This painting can be done by the veriest tyro, for it is merely little dabs and lines. The petals are simply snipped into shape with the scissors. Under one of the petals is a tiny bag holding the sachet. A fluting pointsetin made of scarlet ribbon would be most appropriate.

Hints For Homemade Gifts.

Soft pillow cases of rudely stenciled denim—splendid winter colors—ready to make up and as low as 50 cents.

White felt padding for tea table cloths, cut in the required size and neatly bordered with white tape.

Bureau and cushion covers of bright cretanne, edged with a coarse white curtain lace.

A Storm-Bound Christmas

By Dorothy Douglas

AD Wallingford been anything but a wealthy bachelor and accustomed to having everything he wanted, the circumstances would have seemed less of a calamity.

He had been on his way to San Francisco to spend Christmas with his favorite married sister, and midway, in the most barren desert of the country, a bridge had been swept away by winter gales. His destination could not possibly be reached until Christmas was well over.

Wallingford cast a glance out over the wide stretch of rolling plains with only a few scattered shrubs to break their endless waste; and then he looked back to his bulging suitcase. The latest and most wonderful toys he could find in the city shops were crowded into that bag, for his sister's only boy. Then, not caring whether or not a highwayman might be looking in at the window of the parlor car, he took a small box from his waistcoat pocket and looked sorrowfully at a ring from which three exquisite diamonds flashed back at him.

Wallingford leaned back in his chair and in imagination pictured his sister's joy when slipping that ring on her finger. He could hear her scold him for having no one else for whom to buy such baubles. He sighed and returned it to his pocket much as he might have cast it to the depths of the sea; it would do him as much good there as it would in his pocket under the present circumstances.

Wallingford was reconciled to a Christmas dinner over a lunch counter when his eye caught the name of Yankville. Yankville probably boasted a near-thousand inhabitant, yet Yankville also suggested the name of Everly—Jack Everly. When Wallingford had last heard of Jack Everly the latter was located in Yankville. That was some eighteen months before, but there was no reason why he should not be there still.

It seemed that everyone in Yankville knew the Everly homestead. It was the only one of any proportions in the village.

The red glow from an open fire within cheered Wallingford's numbed faculties as he rang the bell at the Everly door.

On the face of her who opened the door, surprise was the principal expression. For, Wallingford, his six-foot-two encased in a great fur coat all dangling with glistening snow beads and his handsome glowing face looking frankly into her own, was a surprise for any eyes.

She did not wait for him to explain his errand but with the matron's privilege of hospitality invited him into the warmth of the house.

"It was too cold to stand outside," she explained and waited for his question.

"I am Bob Wallingford," he began meeting the easy cordial expression of her blue eyes. "I am one of the belated passengers of the bridge tie-up and decided to run over and see if Jack Everly would take pity on an old friend and—"

"Jack Everly left Yankville," a smile played about her lips at mention of the illustrious village, "some six or seven months ago—"

Embarrassment, disappointment and surprise mingled equally in Wallingford's face and did not escape the eyes of Sylvia Vale. She spoke with ready tact.

"Take off that great coat, anyway, and come into the fireside. It's no night to be out."

Wallingford followed the slim gray-clad figure in a decidedly chaotic state of mind. Mingled with his embarrassment at having walked into an absolute stranger's house, was the sudden attraction he felt for this girl with the sunlit hair. Something—the combination perhaps—was making him feel like a tongue-tied schoolboy. It was a most unusual state of mind for Bob Wallingford.

There was a patter of little feet and a tiny boy of three years threw himself into Wallingford's arms.

"Oh-h! Are you Santa Claus?" he cried gleefully. "I heard your sleigh bells and saw your big fuzzy coat! Mamma, isn't he Santa Claus?"

The child's mother would have spoken but Wallingford's eyes pleaded for silence.

"You young rascal! You caught old Santa this time, didn't you? And he came especially to find out what you wanted him to bring down the chimney—"

"Wallingford! How in the name of all that's possible did you get here?"

Dick Elkins, an old chum of New York days, stood in the doorway and held out a glad hand of welcome.

A weight of relief fell from Wallingford's shoulders. He was no longer a stranger in a strange house. And did he imagine it, or did a glad light come also into the eyes of the woman? "How about yourself?" he asked when they had shaken hands.

"This is my own house and my own sister," laughed Elkins. "But where in the world did you and Mrs. Vale strike up an acquaintance?" He cast an interrogative glance at his sister. "Sis, you never told me—"

Sylvia glanced quickly at Wallingford and a deep blush mingled with the glow from the fire in her cheeks. She explained the circumstances and Wallingford was quickly made to feel that he had come to the right house.

"I will stay under one condition only," he said finally, "and that is that you all will accept, without protest, the Christmas gifts which I brought for my sister and her family—without question."

There was a moment's silence and the promise was made, laughingly.

"But we will have to return the favor," brother and sister spoke as one voice.

So it was decided. "Too bad Vale couldn't get here," remarked Elkins, later in the evening when, the small boy having been tucked into bed, the three sat about the blazing fire.

"Yes—we would have made a jolly quartet," said Sylvia.

Wallingford was almost guilty of a gasp. The calm, unconcerned way in which she remarked that her husband would have completed a quartet on Christmas eve had been able to get there, was rather disconcerting.

Dick Elkins arose and left the room to get the boy's toys.

"Bring down the suitcase in my room," cried Wallingford. He was as excited as a boy.

"You will not regret having promised to accept what I had bought for my sister?" Wallingford leaned slightly toward Sylvia's gray dress and through the strands of her golden hair, and the man in him had a struggle before quenching the light in his own eyes. It was the girl herself who was unable to hide a tremor.

"I promise," she said unsteadily. "But it seems—odd."

Dick returned, staggering under a load of toys. Then they all jumped gladly into the spirit of Christmas.

"When my husband was living," said Sylvia as she pinned up a tiny Invited Him Into the Warmth of the House.

stocking, "he always spoke of the day when he could do this—"

The end of her sentence was drowned in the clatter of a huge box of blocks dropping to the hearthstone.

"Cheer up," said Wallingford; "wooden blocks don't break."

He stooped to pick the fallen toys and wondered if the woman pinning up the stocking beside him heard the thumping of his heart. A small box found its way into Sylvia's hand.

"Mrs. Vale, I can't keep this another minute," Wallingford said.

"Oh, I say!" exclaimed Dick when the flashing diamond ring was unwrapped. "You shouldn't expect to make sis take—"

"You promised." The eyes of the two men met and Elkins knew then and there what Wallingford's lips would speak.

With two of the opposite sex against her Sylvia had little chance to demur and with a tingling sensation in every nerve she slipped the ring on her right hand.

It was late the next night when the child had again been tucked in bed to dream of a wonderful day in the kingdom of toys with three grown up people to play with him, that the three again sat about the open fire.

"I never spent a happier Christmas," said Wallingford with a glad ring in his voice.

"Nor I," put in Dick. "Vale missed a good time all right," he added sleepily. "Sis and her brother-in-law are quite smitten."

And unaware of the havoc he had created in Wallingford's heart he took his departure for bed, leaving the two in silence.

But the silence was a complete one—one in which spoken words and thoughts were unnecessary. After a moment Wallingford leaned forward and compelled Sylvia's eyes and while he did so he took her right hand and removed the ring and put it firmly on the third finger of her left hand.

"Next Christmas," he said tenderly, "we will spend at our own fireside. It is all very sudden and very wonderful, Sylvia, but I always do important things suddenly and—love is always wonderful."

DOCTORS SAID "HOPELESS CASE"

Little Boy Barred From Hospital As incurable.

"Little Stanley Peabody, not quite four years old, was so ill and run down that life was despaired of. He was very thin and emaciated, had a bad cough and was in such a serious condition that he was refused admission to the hospital," said Miss Ellen O'Leary, matron of the Children's home on Kirk street, Lowell, Mass., in a recent interview. "I began giving him Father John's Medicine and he has steadily improved. Today he is fat and strong and a splendidly healthy boy. We always give Father John's Medicine to the children to prevent them from getting cold or when they need building up. It has been our family remedy, for years and I have great faith in it."

Mothers should remember that Father John's Medicine is a safe remedy for children as well as older people because it cures colds and throat and lung troubles without the use of alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form. Get a bottle today.

THE SHERWOOD PENSION BILL PASSES HOUSE

Bill Was Opposed Because of Increased Drain on Public Funds. Now Up to Senate.

Washington, Dec. 13.—The Sherwood service pension bill, which would add upwards of $40,000,000 to the government's annual expenditures by granting increased pensions to civil and Mexican war veterans on the basis of length of service, was passed by the house last night, despite the determined opposition of many Democratic leaders. Secretary of the Interior Fisher estimated that the bill will add $75,000,000 to the pension roll, if the 100,000 veterans eligible take advantage of the increased rate.

The Republicans who voted with the 84 Democrats against the bill are Gardner, Gillette and McCall of Massachusetts, Hill of Connecticut, Kent of California, McGraw of Pennsylvania, Payne of New York and Utter of Rhode Island. Speaker Clark voted with the majority of his party for the bill, and Democratic Leader Underwood and Fitzgerald of New York, chairman of the appropriations committee, voted against it.

The bill now goes to the senate, where there is a disposition to pass some form of amended service pension legislation. Senate leaders, however, will proceed slowly in the consideration of this legislation, and many house Democrats voted for the measure in the belief that the senate would not pass it.

The Sulloway age pension bill, passed by the house last spring, failed of passage in the senate at that time. This Republican measure was offered unsuccessfully in the house as a substitute for the Sherwood bill. Scores of amendments were offered, and a hard but unsuccessful fight was made to have a straight $1 a day pension bill established, without regard to the length of service of the veterans.

The Sherwood bill would establish the following basis of pensions: For service for 93 days to six months, $15 per month; from six to nine months, $20 per month; from nine months to one year, $25 per month; more than one year $30 per month.

Two important changes were made in the Sherwood bill during the all-day battle over it. A joint amendment by Representative Rauch of Indiana and Representative Cox of Ohio struck out the provision denying entrance to federal soldiers' homes of veterans receiving more than $25 per month pension, and resubstituted state homes federal aid for the support of such pensioners.

The restriction against the payment of any pension to a veteran whose income exceeds $1000 a year was voted out on the motion of Representative Rucker of Colorado.

The fight on the bill was waged along political lines to a considerable extent and members of each party charged the other party with buncombe in its attitude toward the old soldiers.

Prominent Democrats attacked the bill as directly opposed to the Democratic principles of economy and destructive of the plans to reduce the tariff.

Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee fought it because of its tremendous draught on the treasury. Representative Harrison of New York, a leading Democrat on the ways and means committee, declared that the bill "knocks in the face all pretensions made by the Democratic party in the last campaign."

GRANVILLE

Granville, Dec. 12.—An Advocate reporter was talking with one of the old Welsh residents of Granville about the little Welsh church in the village, where regular services were held for so many years, but for the past several years have been discontinued to a great extent. He said that the first Welsh church edifice was erected in 1843, and that the present building was constructed in 1856. The Rev. Edward Jones is believed to have preached the first Welsh sermon in Granville, at the residence of Mr. Jenkin Hughes, about the year 1834. About this time also, a Sunday school was organized. These services and Sunday school were conducted in a rented room over the postoffice. Revs. Edward Jones, William Parry and William Morgan were occasional preachers until 1840, when the Rev. William Parry became the settled minister. He remained until 1852, and was succeeded by the Rev. Joseph B. Davis. Rev. E. T. Evans became the settled minister in 1856. At the organization in 1839, William Ellis, John Jones and William T. Williams were elected elders. J. J. Hughes and John R. Owens were subsequently elected. A small Sabbath school was connected with the church for many years.

While the Advocate has the honor of having the first paper printed in Licking county, it having been established in 1820, The Wanderer was established in Granville in 1822. It was devoted to news, advertising and the interests of the little village. It was small in size, containing little reading matter, and was issued by "Uncle Sereno" and one of his boys. The latter fell down stairs one day, seriously injuring himself, which circumstance led to the suspension of the Wanderer. This was about two years after it started.

"EVERY LITTLE OLIVE TABLET HAS A MOVEMENT ALL ITS OWN"

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Portsmouth, Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities.

One, and 25c. per box.

WARDEN HOTEL BLOCK

A new profession has been taken up by women in the South American cities. On the trolley cars, even in the busiest streets, the female conductor has long been an important factor of the rapid transit situation. The cars are of the double deck type, which compels the fair conductor, or "conductress," to climb from one level to another while the car is in motion. Nevertheless the woman conductor presides over the rear platform with dignity and to the satisfaction of all concerned. During a visit of a large party of American tourists to South America on the regular annual cruise of the Steamship Bluecher of the Hamburg-American Line last year a number of photographs of these women conductors were secured.

A visitor to South American cities is particularly surprised at this costume. Instead of donning livery or buttons, she appears in a white shirt, waist and skirt, while a wide and very domestic looking apron is worn. It is evidently a libel that women must always search long and abstractedly for their pockets as the lady conductor carries several spacious pockets in her broad apron. Except for the band on her wide brimmed straw hat there is nothing to distinguish the conductor from any ordinary shopper unless it be the apron. In Valparaiso, where the lady conductor may be seen in all her glory there are rush hours comparable with those known in most American cities. The Spanish equivalent for "Move up!" "Plenty of room up front!" and "Step lively!" are "¡Adelante!" "¡Frente!" and "¡Pase!"

DIVED FROM THE NINETEENTH FLOOR OF MASONIC TEMPLE

Chicago, Dec. 12.—J. P. Greek, aged 25, who is believed to have been mentally unbalanced, mounted to the nineteenth floor of the Masonic Temple building, disrobed, crawled out on a beam and dropped to the floor below. His mangled body was unrecognizable. The body struck the cigar stand in the rotunda and injured a man who was standing near. The rotunda was crowded when the man jumped and much confusion ensued.

The body of the suicide was identified from a union card found in his clothing. He was a member of the International Association of Machinists. Both arms of the man standing in the cigar counter were broken by the falling body.

GRATUIT W. C. T. U.

Gratuit, O., Dec. 12.—The meeting of the W. C. T. U. held at the M. E. church, was largely attended and very interesting. The addresses of both Rev. Allen and Mr. B. O. Felton were listened to by the congregation with rapt attention.

Mr. Scott Morgan, of Hopewell, rendered a fine recitation.

The union is increasing in members and interest, eleven being added Sabbath evening. All are invited to the regular meetings held at the M. E. church the second Wednesday of each month.

LARRY McLEAN GOES; HE'S TOO CONVIVIAL

LARRY McLEAN.

All the clubs in the National League except Chicago, have waived on "Long Larry" McLean, Cincinnati catcher, and now, unless the Cub management wants Larry badly enough to give Herrman a corking good player or two in a swap, the chances are that the big backstop will go either to some American League club or to the minors. If he does, it will be because he is entirely too convivial and congenial. He is one of the best catchers in the business, but his conviviality interferes with his ball playing, the Red management thinks.

AMUSEMENTS

What the Press Agent Says

Howe's Travel Festival. The most splendid pageant in all history will be reproduced at the Auditorium theatre, Thursday, December 14 when Lyman H. Howe will present his remarkable scenes of the Coronation of George V. The splendor and stateliness—the unexampled magnificence—of the whole royal pageant and ceremony will be shown in detail and even more intimately than any event of equal importance that Mr. Howe has ever reproduced. The real grandeur of the gorgeous spectacle is portrayed in a manner that is profoundly impressive to every spectator. A ride on an aeroplane with Lincoln Beachey; another on a diligence through the mountain passes of New Zealand, and a ride on the Rio Grande railroad through the Royal Gorge of Colorado will also be reproduced by Mr. Howe.

The Orpheum.

Hawthorne's Merry Minstrel Maids have been secured to play in the popular Arcade playhouse and will be seen here the last three days of this week. This is one of the best acts in vaudeville and has been secured at a great expense to play only a limited few of the best houses on this circuit. They come to Newark direct from the Keith time where they have made the best of records. There are seven people in the act, five pretty girls with excellent voices and a beautiful wardrobe, and two live up-to-date comedians. They carry all their own stage settings which are very elaborate. Madell and Corbley will offer a character musical skit entitled "Summer Boarder and Sun-R-Not." They are said to be very entertaining, introducing six entirely different characters, a clean line of comedy and some novel musical instruments.

Billy Hawthorne, as the colored politician, has a line of comedy that is side-splitting. His ideas on politics are ridiculously funny. Another very entertaining number will be offered by Miss Amy Hawthorne. She is said to be exceptionally clever, introducing a pretty specialty in singing and imitations. The Orpheumscope will have a new film.

DEATH FROM EATING POISONED PANCAKES

LANCASTER, Dec. 13.—W. G. Hall and his three daughters were poisoned yesterday from eating pancakes, and one of the daughters, Ruth Hall, died from the effects. The mother and two other girls who board at the Hall home escaped the same fate by not eating any of the cakes. Mr. Hall and the other two daughters are in a serious condition and may not recover. The family came to this city from Whistler, Pickaway county, about three years ago and Mr. Hall has been conducting a fruit store. A sample of the flour and the sugar that the syrup was made from were sent to Columbus today to be analyzed.
